The history of American football can be traced to early versions of rugby football and association football, both games having their origin in varieties of football played in Britain in the mid-19th century. These varieties were based on the versions of English public school football games.

According to FIFA, the world governing body of football, the contemporary history of the game began in 1863 in England when rugby football and association football branched off on their different courses and the English football association was formed as the sport's first governing body. Until the 19th century, football had been played in various forms using a multiplicity of rules.
